

When the Boy's Come Rolling Home (Sands)

Originally written by legendary singer/songwriter Tommy Sands we rocked it up a lot. Listen to the lyrics sometime as they really are brilliant. We snuck on to the radio in the UK with this one for awhile and actually got to talk to Tommy himself a couple of times as a result. He even wrote a fabulous quote for us that really sums up his activist personality.

Something like: "Fraid Knot can musically kick down your door and leave you wanting more. That's okay as there never should have been a door there anyway." Todd Al (producer on Hoist) and I were sitting around The Beach (studio) recapping everything we'd just done in this huge undertaking when I realized we forgot to track the harmony parts for this song. He was insisting it sounded great without them but I think he just wanted to get home (it was VERY late). To his credit, he ran a mic for me and we banged them off in a hurry! Thanks for all the great music Tommy!

GW

This is a great song and one of my favorites to do live. I changed the lyrics to make reference to the band when we recorded – "Danny went to Boston, Heid to Buffalo, Lael went down as far as Californie". FYI – Heid was Ed's nickname to the guys in the band. Glenn and I didn't get mentioned but we were the ones singing the parts so it made sense...lol

BE